Reflections

St Paul writes about strength in weakness to the Church today. He tells us that whenever he is weak then Christ is strong. It is the same with us: whenever we let Christ take us over our lives and weakness, insult, hardship or persecution that we face is insignificant because the power of Christ makes us strong.

- May our egos get out of the way so that Christ can take over our lives so that we may be truly strong.
- Give thanks for the work and witness of the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Anglican Council

Acknowledgment of Country

As we gather in this Parish Church, we acknowledge the Yuggera people, the traditional custodians of this land, and their elders past and present. We honour the connection the traditional custodians have with this land.

COVID-19 NOTICE: Face masks must be worn in indoor and outdoor spaces, including at places of worship. Workers and educators may remove their face mask in situations where clear enunciation or visibility of the mouth is essential (this includes those preaching, leading services and leading singing).

Justice and mercy

It can cause all sorts of trouble when people get the wrong end of the stick and words such as 'justice' and 'mercy', are prime examples. They are used in the Bible used to describe God; in our culture they are what we want when we are victims of an injustice or when we have done wrong. Of course, language is an ever-changing tool but if we are to be just and merciful ourselves then we must try to understand these attributes of God as presented in Scripture. Mercy (hesed), lovingkindness (KJV) is God's tender forbearance of frail humanity. Justice is about right relationship between God and humans, humans with each other, all brought about by God's grace.

Therefore the Lord waits to be gracious to you; therefore he will rise up to show mercy to you.

For the Lord is a God of justice; blessed are all those who wait for him. Isaiah 30:18

Mothers' Union members, pray to be just and merciful as God is just and merciful. This may mean changing your approach – less asking and more listening, less about me and more about others.

'Draw us through the narrowest of gates to the wide open space of the promise.

Knitting for Seafarers

If anyone is knitting beanies and scarves for Seafarers, could you please drop them at the Office or bring them to church on Sunday, by Sunday 4th July. We will be taking them down to St Luke's, Collingwood Park, for a blessing on their "Sea Sunday" on the 11th July. St Luke's will then take them to the Port of Brisbane for distribution.

Sunday Devotion: Anglican Focus

"My grace is sufficient for you, for power is made perfect in weakness." (2 Corinthians 12.9)

I was reminded of a very busy weekend years ago when we had five active children at school and we were involved in the many groups that were part of our lives. The yard was full of kids, washing was out, a batch of marshmallow was in the mixer, the roast was in the oven and as I put several dozen ice-cream cups on the bench for the marshmallow, I remember stopping, smiling and saying to God, "Wow, aren't I good! Look at everything I've done today." A bit later I came back into the kitchen to check on the roast and glanced at the marshmallows on the bench, which were melting into a sea of sticky syrup across the bench and floor.

This reading reminds me how far I have travelled in my Christian journey. It reminds me that I accept completely that all I achieve is with God by my side, guiding me and strengthening me each moment of every day.

I am content with my weaknesses, hardships and calamities because I know whom is beside me with every step I take. This strengthens me to face the regular challenges of daily family life, confident everything is in HIS hands through prayer.

Most of us find it difficult to understand, "My grace is sufficient for you, for power is made perfect in weakness." Society often tells us to be always independent, self-sufficient and in control. Are you?

ST PAUL'S ANNUAL QUILT & CRAFT SHOW IS BACK!

Thursday 2nd to Sunday 5th September 2021

For our craft stall, we need all kinds of handiwork such as knitting, crocheting, woodwork, plants, cooking etc so now is the time to start so that our craft stall will be really great and well stocked. The setup of the quilts in the church will commence on Sunday afternoon 29th August with the main hanging. On the Monday, stands will arrive to complete the hanging. Please book in the dates for this very important part of our parish life together.

BAILIWICK

As we emerge from yet another lockdown, it is easy to feel we have been lucky. But we are rank amateurs in the luck stakes when we consider the case of Violet Constance Jessop. Born in Argentina in 1887, she was the eldest of nine children. As a child she was diagnosed with tuberculosis, for which doctors gave her no hope of survival. But survive she did and, following her father's death, travelled to England where she cared for her siblings.

When her mother was taken ill, she sought employment as a cabin stewardess and went to sea. She worked hard and found herself, in 1911, on the White Star vessel RMS Olympic, the largest civilian liner at the time. On departing from Southampton on 20th September that year, it collided with the warship HMS Hawke. Badly damaged, the Olympic managed to make it to port without sinking.

Still working for the White Star Line, Violet boarded the second ship in the Olympic-class of White Star's fleet on 10th April 1912, the RMS Titanic. Four days later, as most people are aware, the ship hit an iceberg and sank. Violet was ordered to put a lifejacket on and to head up on deck in order to show non-English speakers what to do. Not only did this contribute to her being saved, but is an act that is often commemorated in movies of that event.

Of the (estimated) 2224 passengers and crew on board, over 1500 died. She was picked up by the RMS Carpathia the following day.

Lesser mortals might have given up a nautical life, but Violet returned to the oceans aboard the third of the trio of Olympic-class ships. The First World War had plunged the whole world into trauma and Violet was working for the British Red Cross. The Battle of the Somme had only just ended and she was now serving aboard HMHS Britannic, the younger sister ship of the Titanic.

Whilst sailing in the Aegean Sea on 21st November 1916, the ship hit an underwater mine. The resulting explosion caused the ship to sink within 55 minutes. She only just survived by leaping from the lifeboat she was in immediately prior to the ship's propellers reducing it to matchwood.

She continued to serve at sea, though had no further mishaps. She died of heart failure in 1971.

We never know when we might be called from life to the heavenly realms. Not all of us are as lucky as Violet. We all need to be prepared, just in case tomorrow is the day our ship sinks.

ACSQ Child Protection Policy Training

This is just your friendly reminder to Blue Card holders at St Paul's, if you have not done so already, to update your Child Protection Training online.

In accordance with the Diocese of Brisbane "this online course has been designed to make it easier for parish volunteers and staff to complete their mandatory training in the Policy and Procedures for the Protection of Children. This training needs to be undertaken every three years".

For your convenience, please follow the link to complete your training online: https://cppt-acsq.teachable.com/.

However, if you require assistance, would like to arrange online training using one of the parish computers or have any additional questions, please do not hesitate to contact Elizabeth in the St Paul's Parish Office.
